Small Business Needs Encouragement

It is reported that 60 per cent of all jobs in private employment are supplied by relatively small independent businessmen and the evidence is that people are beginning to pay more attention to the problems and the potential of this factor in the nation's economy.

Inflation for small business can be a more serious matter than for a hugh industry. Not only is it more difficult for the small businessman to raise prices and still stay competitive, he often experiences greater consumer resistance when he does hike prices. Chains and major corporate concerns can rely on volume. Small companies can cut back only so far without flirting with liquidation.

But there were encouraging signs in the last few months of 1970. For one thing, the small business sector has been able to get more attention than it once did. The quest for more jobs turned to small industries and merchants when strikes, automation and financial failure beset big business.

Small business got more attention in Congress, too. In 1971 Congress will have before it, for possible action, the small business tax reform bill. It is said to be the most comprehensive tax reform proposal ever made to preserve and expand small business. The message, that small business plays a major role in a nation's economic health and growth, apparently is getting across. — Lexington (Ky.) Herald

Says Many State Police Incompetent

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)— State Police Director Ralph Scott said Wednesday night the State Police will never reach the level of professionalism he has strived for as long as "incompetent people" are in the organization.

"A few members of the State Police reached their level of incompetence the day they were hired," Scott said. Speaking to the Hot Springs Kiwanis Club, Scott said it was extremely difficult to get rid of these people

"What has to be done," Scott said, "is that some of these incompetent people who were hired in the first place because of someone they knew and promoted in the second place because of someone they knew and promoted in the second place because of someone they knew have to be retired out of the system" before the State Police can become a truly professional organization.

"There is not a large number of incompetents in the State Police," Scott said, "but when some of them are high-ranking officers, it is difficult for you to show the progress that must be shown."

Scott, who recently turned in his resignation as State Police director, said he knew the job was a political job when he took it. "I never expected to last as long as I did," he said.

"If you think I'm cold-blooded, I guess I'm just cold-blooded," the director said. "You just can't build an efficient police organization with incompetent people."

Good Thing He Was Drinking

MIAMI (AP) — William Folsom spit on the floor, startling friends with whom he was having a drink.

Folsom spit out a .22-caliber bullet which had slammed into his head, ricocheted off his cheekbone, bounced off his jawbone and landed in his mouth.

When Folsom's friend appeared in court on assault charges, Folsom woudln't testify against him. Folsom said of Joseph Cole, 59: "I don't think he intended to do it."

The two longtime drinking buddies left the courtroom together.

Hoffa's Reign Over Union May Be Ended

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Riddle Hoffa's 13-year reign over the giant Teamsters union appears all but ended after the U.S. Parole Board denial of his appeal for freedom.

Hoffa, serving an eight-year jury tampering sentence, will retain the title of union president for several more months, but Teamsters sources said he will almost certainly be replaced at the union's July convention in Miami Beach, Fla.

A new Teamsters president also could mean early negotiations for a return of the 2-million-member Teamsters to the main body of American labor, the AFL-CIO which expelled Hoffa's union in 1957 on corruption charges.

Abolish Draft Drive Soundly Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drive by Indochina war critics to abolish the draft has been overwhelmingly rejected by the House. A move to limit its extension to only one year fell two votes short.

With the draft-scrapping effort lost, war foes had more amendments today to try to outlaw sending draftees, if not all U.S. troops, to Indochina after the end of the year.

The House is considering a draft bill with a $2.7-billion-pay-boost incentive for President Nixon's volunteer army; authority for the President to abolish student draft deferments, and extending the non-military-service requirement for conscientious objectors from two to three years.

The one-year draft extension proposed by Rep. Charles W. Whalen Jr., R-Ohio—who said it would pressure the administration to create the volunteer army in one year instead of two—was rejected Wednesday

Money for Stock Show, Vocational Technical School Here Assured

By MACK McLARTY
State Representative
Hempstead County

There are two basic functions which accompany the office of an elected Representative, whether he be a state legislator or national congressman. The first of these is to make decisions which guide the state and to be a participant in the collective decisions which affect the lives of all our citizens. The second responsibility, and of equal importance, is to care for and guide the needs of the area and the people of the Representative's district.

The most difficult job of a legislator is to maintain a balance between these two areas and to divide this time so that both needs are served to be best of his ability.

The columns we have written this session have been descriptive of the affairs of state—primarily the big issues which have commanded the most attention and controversy of the public.

Behind the scenes—in the calls of the Capitol, so to speak—the other legislative process goes on. Because it is a less publicized function people often have a cloudy picture of cigar smoking lobbyists wheeling and dealing with legislators. I must report that such activities have either passed me by or they must be the product of the movie makers who so falsely "glamorize" politics.

I am pleased to announce that due to some "behind the scenes activities there is good news for Hempstead County. Two of our pet projects have now been budgeted for the next two years.

The first is an appropriation for the district livestock shows for badly needed improvements. A group of five colleagues and myself called on Governor Bumpers to request budgeting for these improvements.

Although he was not initially warm to the idea we were more than successful in our meeting. Each of the six district livestock shows will receive a base of $25,000—$5,000 more than the original request. In addition the State Fair will give each district $5,000, bringing the total appropriation per district to $30,000.

Arkansas is striving to become a prosperous industrial state—a method for achieving a sounder more well-rounded tax base. In the past decade many Arkansans have forgotten the extreme importance of our booming agricultural industry. I credit the institution of county and district livestock shows with the continuing growth and development of the individual farmer or rancher in the world's greatest agricultural nation. The praise may seem a little dramatic, but think for a moment what the stimulus of

Reds Cross From Laos, Hits Base

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A North Vietnamese regiment crossed from Laos into South Vietnam's central highlands and in a furious assault drove Saigon's troops out of a frontier fire base, the South Vietnamese Command reported today.

Continueing an upsurge of offensive action that began Sunday, apparently in retaliation for the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos, the North Vietnamese also unleashed a barrage of 500 rockets against two other artillery bases close to the Laotian border.

Meanwhile, a South Vietnamese commando force returned from an overnight raid on a North Vietnamese base on the Ho Chi Minh trail six miles inside Laos, the 26-hour operation apparently produced only minor results, with the South Vietnamese destroying some ammunition and fuel but failing to engage the North Vietnamese.

GOPs Plan to Counter War Policy Critics

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans led by GOP Leader Hugh Scott charged today that Democratic presidential hopefuls in the Senate are playing politics with the Indochinese war.

They called for backing of President Nixon's policies and said that, henceforth, GOP senators will try to answer promptly criticism by Senate Democrats.

Scott, of Pennsylvania, and Sen. Clifford P. Hansen, of Wyoming, criticized news coverage of the recent termination of the U.S.-backed South Vietnamese operation in Laos. Suggestions that it ended in a rout, Hansen said, were the efforts "by television networks to interfere with a foreign policy with which they apparently were not in accord."

But Sen. J.W. Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who chairs the Foreign Relations Committee, said that while he regrets the failure of the Laotian campaign "it was perfectly evident to the average person that it was a failure."

Fulbright said "it is no service to our country to cover up, to deny what the facts are, in Laos or anywhere else."

Scott's charge that Democrats had turned the war issue into a political football drew a smile and this comment from his Democratic counterpart, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Mon-

German Sub Which Has Floated Under Water 30 Years Poses Threat

By RAY BELL
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A modern Flying Dutchman—a sunken German submarine which apparently has drifted under water for nearly 30 years and 400 miles—reportedly is threatening the Florida coast with a deadly cargo of mercury and munitions, federal officials say.

The vessel is believed to contain nearly 200 tons of mercury, a potent contaminant, and explosives including TNT, torpedoes and other armements.

Howard Zeller, Southeastern chief of water quality standards for the Environmental Protection Agency—EPA—said he was ordered to investigate the situation after a commercial salvage operator reported finding the sub in 25 to 50 feet of water near Tampa Bay on Florida's West Coast.

The salvage operator was identified only by the last name of Gaddy from the Bahama Islands.

Zeller said he notified the government that the sunken hulk bore the number U166.

Another federal official said military records indicate that a U-boat of that number, reportedly a model 1XC, was sunk off New Orleans in 1942.

"It's apparently the same submarine," the official said. "The only explanation we have is that it, like the legendary Flying Dutchman, just drifted aimlessly with the ocean currents."

The Flying Dutchman, a traditional sea story, involves a captain doomed to sail a ghost ship eternally.

Zeller said the EPA concern stems from the fact that the model 1XC submarine, built in the late 1930s, reportedly carried some 200 tons of mercury as ballast.

The Food and Drug Administration has recognized a mercury concentration of .5 parts per million as the danger level in fish and seafood. A federal spokesman said however, the government, had "no way to estimate the effect if 200 tons of mercury were suddenly dumped into the Gulf of Mexico."

"All I can say is that it's damn dangerous stuff," an official said.

Another federal official offered an explanation for the secrecy about the sub.

"In the 1930s," he said, "mercury was dirt cheap because there was a glut on the market. Today, well, it's not quite like gold—but it's still nice stuff to have."

He said the submarine "is probably still in one major piece and would contain enough air weight to make the salvage operation quite easy and profitable."

Mercury was selling at New York Wednesday for $337 per 76-pound flask. Two hundred tons at that price would be worth about $90,000.

Started Like a Magic Day But Soon Realized It Was Just April Fool

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It started out like one of those magic days that come along now and then.

I haved myself without even making a little dent in my throat, stepped on the scales and saw I had lost eight pounds, and when I walked into the elevator I found a $5 bill on the floor.

As I started to drop a token in the box, the bus driver smiled and said, "Put it back in your pocket, buster. This ride's on me. You look like my kind of galoot."

When I left the bus, a policeman took me by the elbow, thrust a gun in my hand, and said, "You look like my kind of galoot, buster. How about robbing this bank over here for me?"

"Why don't you rob it yourself?"

"The captain didn't like me to," he said. "It gives our precinct a bad name. But everything's okay. I've got buddies posted at each end of the block, and the bank guard is my brother-in-law."

So I went into the bank, shot a hole in a hidden television camera, and asked for and received $1,000,000 in $1,000 bills. When I emerged the policeman led me to a parked car and said, "This is for the getaway. Don't hit the driver—she's my mother—and tell her not to run through any red lights."

So we buzzed up Fifth Avenue, stopped in Central Park and cut the swag fifty-fifty. Before driving off the old lady said, "You're my kind of galoot, buster. When you feel like making another heist, just look up my son, the policeman."

Well, as I was walking past the Central Park Zoo, a tall handsome young lady in cowboy boots pointed at one of the animal dens and asked:

"Why are they keeping a little ole dog like that behind bars?"

"That isn't a little old dog. That's a big young lion, the king of beasts."

"That so? Back where I come from we got jackrabbits twice that size."

"Where do you come from?"

"Texas. I'm a heiress—but what else would a girl like me be."

"What do you do?" she asked.

"I rob banks," I told her. "I just bopped one and I've got half a million bucks in this briefcase to prove it."

"You robbed a bank before

Protests Snowball Over Conviction and Life Sentence of Lt. Calley

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Telegrams to President Nixon were running about 100 to 1 against the court-martial conviction and life sentence of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. as the groundswell protest over the case continued to grow today.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Wednesday that about 5,000 telegrams had already been received and an estimated backlog of some 20,000 was waiting to be transmitted. He said virtually all favored clemency for Calley, found guilty of slaying at least 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai three years ago.

Other protests took the form of legislative resolutons, draft board resignations, vigils, petition campaigns, flag flying and a plan for a ransom fund.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was quoted as saying that some persons believe that anyone involved in an action such as at My Lai "is guilty of a war crime." He termed that viewpoint "oversimplified extremism."

Calley Gets Life, Appeal in Making

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — His fight for life won, Lt. William L. Calley Jr. turns now to a battle for freedom from life in prison, a sentence that can be tempered only by reviewing authorities.

Calley, 27, was spared the death penalty Wednesday by the same military jury which convicted him Monday of the murder of 22 Vietnamese men, women and children during the My Lai massacre three years ago.

The sentence will be subject to automatic review through a procedure that could take at least a year and possibly as long as five years.

After exhausting its remedies within the military judicial system, to as high as the U.S. Court of Military Appeals, the defense would have recourse to civil courts.

President Nixon could at any time pardon Calley or reduce

58 Americans Killed in Combat

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported today that 58 Americans were killed in combat last week and 542 were wounded. It was the highest American death toll in a month and the largest number of wounded in six months.

South Vietnamese headquarters also announced an increase in casualties last week, with 756 killed and 1,726 wounded. But the allied commands reported a sharp reduction in enemy casualties, with 3,574 claimed killed, more than 2,000 less than the 5,819 reported the week before.

The U.S. casualties did not include the 33 American soldiers killed and 76 wounded early Sunday in the North Vietnamese attack on Fire Base Mary Ann.

The American death count last week was the highest since the week of Feb. 21-27, when 69 were killed. The total of wounded was the highest since Sept. 27-Oct. 3, when 666 were reported.

Most of the allied casualties were attributed to fighting in the Laotian panhandle and in the northern provinces of South Vietnam. A U.S. spokesman said the high figure for American wounded resulted in part from inclusion of some men wounded in previous weeks but not included in those summaries.

The U.S. Command also reported 22 American deaths last week from such nonhostile causes as accidents and illness.

The Command said American casualties for the war now total 44,788 dead, 296,911 wounded and 9,386 dead from nonhostile causes.

The total reported for the South Vietnamese is 624,150 killed and 268,079 wounded, while the total enemy killed is 726,961, by allied count.

Hendrix Wants Clemency for Calley

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Senate approved on a voice vote today a resolution by Sen. Olen Hendrix of Prescott urging President Nixon to grant executive clemency to Lt. William L. Calley Jr.

The House also adopted a similar resolution offered by Rep. Jimmie Don McKissack of Star City.

Calley was sentenced Wednesday at Ft. Benning, Ga., to life imprisonment for the murder of at least 22 Vietnamese civlians at My Lai in 1968.

Hendrix said in a resolution that Nixon should grant clemency so that Calley and "the thousands of other American soldiers who have been ordered to carry out military commands in the war not be compelled to be held personally responsible for acts committed under military orders from higher authorities. . ."

House Again Rejects Tuition Hike

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The House voted again Wednesday to reject bills to increase the tuition at the state-supported colleges and universities and to admit osteopaths to the full practice of medicine and surgery in Arkansas.

Meanwhile, the Senate voted 33-0 to approve the proposed revenue stabilization act, which will determine how revenues will be distributed to the state agencies and institutions in the next biennium. Its passage is essential to completion of the General Assembly's work.

Legislative action on the bill could be finished today with House consideration of six amendments, none expected to be controversial, that the Senate wrote into the proposal. The House had passed the bill Tuesday.

Both the House and Senate put in a long day Wednesday, with the House approving an appropriation to pay the debts of financially troubled Arkansas AM&N College and finishing legislative approval of three prison money bills, including the penitentiary's general appropriation.

The increase of $50 a semester in the tuition charged by the colleges and universities failed 47-37, with 51 favorable votes needed for passage. The House had defeated the bill Monday, too.

Gov. Dale Bumpers had proposed a $50 increase in the tuition to help the financially strapped schools, but questions arise Wednesday over whether the measure was his bill.

Rep. J. K. Mahony II of El Dorado, an opponent, read from a speech Bumpers delivered to a joint session of the legislature in which the governor said he would ask the colleges and universities to raise the tuition.

Mahony said nothing in the speech showed that the governor would ask the legislature to raise the tuition. The representatives said the colleges, if they wanted an increase, should vote on their own authority.

But Rep. Lacy Landers of Benton said approval of the bill would assure that the increase would be uniform in the state-supported institutions. He said some schools had talked of increasing their tuition more than others.

Rep. Charles Honey of Prescott argued that the colleges and universities would receive a large share of the new tax money the legislature has provided and that this should be ample. Tuition should be raised as a last resort, he said.

In considering the revenue stabilization bill, the Senate defeated an amendment by Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton that would have provided that $486,807 earmarked to implement a Hot Springs branch of Arkansas Polytechnic College would be available for redistribution in 1972-73 if not used to establish the branch.

The two-year branch would be established as part of a plan to develop a cultural museum in Hot Springs.

The House refused 49-19 to approve the osteopath measure after also falling two votes short Monday of giving the bill the required 51 votes needed for approval.

Sponsored by Rep. Jesse Hayes of Pocahontas and supported by Bumpers, the bill would permit the state Medical Board to license osteopaths for the full practice of medicine if they have served a one-year internship in a hospital either approved by the American Osteopathic Association or the American Medical Association within the last five years, or have served a one-year internship and at least a year of postdoctoral training in an AOA-approved hospital.

Arkansas is one of three states that do not allow osteopaths to practice medicine.

The House approved 69-8 the bill to appropriate $1.3 million to pay the debts of AM&N, a redominantly Negro school which is to be merged with the University of Arkansas next year, and to set aside $500,000 in supplemental maintenance funds for the school.

Rep. Jimmie Don McKissack of Star City, calling the bill "one of the greatest boondoggles," said that if the measure were approved the legislature would be saying to other colleges that it was all right for them to spend beyond their budgets.

He said the prroposal was bad precedent. AM&N, McKissack said, is in debt because its administrators had a history of overspending and "fiscal irresponsibility."

With McKissack casting the only dissenting vote, the House approved the Senate-passed version of the general appropriation for the penitentiary. The bill would appropriate $2,155,265 in the first fiscal year of the coming biennium and $2,541,893 in the second year.

There was no debate on the bill. Passage came on the second day after the firing of Correction Commissioner C. Robert Sarver broke an impasse on the measure.

The House voted 81-2 to approve a bill that would appropriate $1,223,417 for construction at the prison. Included are $350,000 for a minimum security unit, $300,000 for a new women's reformatory, $313,417 for water and sewer treatment facilities, $200,000 for farm equipment and $60,000 for a slaughter house, cold storage facilities and a canning factory.

The house approved 81-3 a bill appropriating $134,838 authorized by last year's special legislative session for renovation of the prison barracks and latrines and improvements to the kitchen and dining and laundry facilities.

The House passed the appropriation for the state Parks, Recreation and Travel Commission 78-4 after rejecting an amendment by Rep. Charles Boyce of Dardanelle that would have required that the parks superintendent supervisor have a college degree.

Legislative sources said the amendment would affect supervisor Jack Quaill, who had defended parks division director L. E. Surles last week when legislators, in leading House rejection of the commission appropriation at that time, were critical of Surles.

A Senate bill intended to appropriate $90,377 to install color transmission equipment at the state educational television station was amended by the House to use the money to help expand the station's black and white coverage statewide.

Opponents of the amendment said the funds would not come close to being enough to expand ETV coverage statewide. They also said $272,000 in federal funds that would be made available to buy color equipment could not be used to expand black and white coverage.

The House approved the bill 84-5 after adopting the amendment, offered by Rep. Leroy Blankenship of Walnut Ridge, and sent the measure to the Senate for consideration of the change.

The House failed twice to approve a Senate bill providing $7,500 a year in travel expenses for the governor and giving $7,500 a year in "public relations" expenses to the other constitutional officers, who would receive $4,500 a year under a bill approved earlier by the legislature.

The new proposal also would provide $3,600 to the president pro tempore of the Senate and the House speaker each year. It failed on votes of 71-11 and 74-11 with 75 votes needed.

The Senate amended the Board of Pharmacy appropriation to require that pharmacies be inspected by a pharmacist, rather than a layman, and to reduce the expense allowance for board members. The bill was then approved 35-0.

The Senate amended the Welfare Department appropriation to prohibit agency funds from being used to regulate a church-owned or operated kindergarten or orphanage if the church had 25 or more members and had existed for at least 10 years.

The Senate beat an administration measure to increase the Revenue Department appropriation to finance changes in the system of motor vehicle licensing and to give motorists notice of when to assess their cars and trucks. The vote was 7-25.

GOPs PLAN

tana: "It works both ways-doesn't it?"

The GOP senators who took the floor to praise President Nixon's war efforts included outspoken war critic Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio.

Saxbe said he is "sick and tired" of the war and U.S. involvement.

"One thing that distresses me even more, however, is those who continually play politics with this unfortunate war," he added Saxbe noted that, "until evidence to the contrary presents itself, we should unite behind the President as he moves with reasonable haste to get us out and keep us out."

"This great chamber must continue as a body of deliberations to advise and consent and must not become a forum for irresponsible mud slinging," he added.

Four Republican freshman senators Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio, Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut, J. Glenn Beal Jr. of Maryland and William E. Brock of Tennessee—joined Scott in a round of speeches backing administration efforts.

Scott, who tangled Tuesday with Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, over administration bombing policies, signaled the counterattack in a statement that Republicans plan to speak against efforts by would-be candidates "to use the Senate as a forum to vent unwarranted accusations.

"I am sick and tired of seeing this war used as a political football by any of the same Democrats who during the Democratic administrations were lauding our involvement in Vietnam," Scott said.

The GOP assault came a day after House Democrats adopted a resolution calling for total withdrawal from Indochina by the end of 1972

LONDON (AP) — Dame Kathleen Lonsdale, 68, one of Britain's leading women scientists and a tireless fighter for peace, died today after a long illness. Four years ago, she was the first woman president of the 136-year-old British Association for the advancement of Science.

FORT DODGE, Iowa (AP) — Karl King, 80, one of America's most prolific band music composers, died Wednesday. He wrote marches for many colleges and universities, including all the Big Ten schools, and once was band director for the Barnum and Bailey Circus.

MANHASSET, N.Y. (AP) — Martin Paul Detels, 88, retired admiral lawyer whose career spanned 47 years in New York and San Francisco, died Tuesday. A specialist in marine insurance, Detels helped process claims for major insurance companies and served on the American War Risk Reinsurance Exchange in World War II.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Dan Burrows, 73, a major force in New Mexico journalism for almost 40 years, died Tuesday night from a heart attack. Burrows retired as editor of the Albuquerque Tribune in 1966.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — John M. L. Rutherfurd, 80, a highly honored winner in auto and speed-boat racing, died Tuesday. He began his automobile racing career in 1909 by winning the Southern Amateur Championship. As late as 1954 he won top honors in the NASCAR speed week at Daytona Beach, Fla. He retired the Wanamaker Trophy in boat racing by capturing it three times.

Fair Skies and Cooler Temperatures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Weather Service is predicting fair skies and cooler temperatures following the passage of a frontal system through the state Wednesday night and early today.

The lows tonight will be in the 40s and the highs Friday will be in the 50s and 60s.

The showers first developed last Wednesday night near Fort Smith, moving eastward. The shower system moved through the Little Rock are early today but the weather service recorded no precipitation.

The highs Wednesday ranged from 71 at Jonesboro to 79 at Fort Smith.

Overnight lows were Fayetteville, 60; Harrison, 60; Jonesboro, 57; Pine Bluff, 60; Texarkana, 63; El Dorado, 62; Memphis, 60; Little Rock, 62 and Fort Smith, 64.

Honors for Officer Blacks Denounced

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has given a full honors farewell salute and a Distinguished Service Medal to General James H. Polk, denounced by a black congressman as a bigot who should be court-martialed.

Ending a 37-year military career, Polk was decorated Wednesday for his services as Army commander-in-chief in Europe.

Last week, Rep. William Clay, D-Mo., accused Polk of lip service and token compliance with Pentagon directives aimed at eliminating housing discrimination against black soldiers in Germany.

Clay contended in the Congressional Record that if Polk had used "the powers he had, he could have eliminated many of the problems that existed, thus lessening the animosities and hostilities between black and white troops and between black soldiers and biased German businessmen."

noon, how nice! You sound like my kind of galoot, buster. How about us going out to the airport and hopping aboard my private plan? Then we can breeze off to Brazil and spend the loot without answering a lot of nosy questions."

As I climbed into the plane there was a roaring in my ears and I thought it was the motors, but—

Br-r-r-r-ing, br-r-r-r-ing, br-r-r-r-ing! It was my alarm clock and I was back home in my bedroom and it was time to begin the day.

Just then the door opened and my teen-ager daughter, Tracy Ann, hobbled in with a crutch under one arm.

"I fell out of bed and must have broken a bone in my foot," she said.

"Great grief and small tomcats!" I exclaimed. "I'll call the doctor."

But before I could pick up the phone, Tracy threw the crutch on the floor and cried:

"April Fool! April Fool! You're the first one I've caught today."

Information About Social Security

By KEN HARGIS

If you have any questions regarding social security, send them to the Social Security Office, Box 1319, Texarkana, Texas, Attention: Ken Hargis.

Q. I have worked in the oil fields most of my life, and now I am considering early retirement. If I apply for social security to start at age 62, how much will the benefit be reduced?

A. A worker's benefit is reduced by five-ninth of 1 per cent for each month it is paid before age 65. Therefore, at age 62, the benefit would be reduced by 20 percent.

Q. I farm some land for a share of the crops; it now appears that I will have a good profit this year. Is the land owner required to pay social security for me?

A. No. As a self-employed farmer, you must file an income tax return and pay the social security self-employment tax if your net earnings are $400 or more in a year.

Q. What income is counted to determine if I am subject to the social security retirement test?

A. Count all your earnings. This includes your wages (before deductions) plus your net earnings from self-employment. Bonuses, commissions, fees, vacation pay, and anything else of value which is paid to you for work must be counted. If the total amount exceeds $1680 a year, at least some of your benefits must be withheld.

Q. I am self employed as the operator of a small lunch room. How do I get social security credit for my earnings?

A. The owner of his own business reports his own earnings once a year at the time the income tax return is filed. The report is required and the self-employment tax must be paid each year the net earnings amount to $400 or more. In each such year the self-employed person gets credit for four quarters of coverage.

Engagement Announced

MISS SHEILA ANNE PLYLER

Mr. and Mrs. Al J. Plyler of Prescott announce the engagement of their daughter, Sheila Anne, to Charles William Virden, son of Mrs. Troy C. Garrett and the late Edward S. Virden of Prescott.

Miss Plyler is a senior at Henderson State College and will receive a B.S.E. degree in May. She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi and Alpha Chi honor societies. Grandparents are Mrs. J.C. George of Gurdon and J.M. Plyler of Dallas.

Mr. Virden, after serving four years in the United States Marine Corps, is also a student at Henderson State College. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W.O. Honeycutt of Hope.

Vows will be exchanged on May 28 in the First Baptist Church of Prescott. No invitations will be sent. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Milk Prices Are High and Going Higher

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail milk prices, already at their highest level in two years, are likely to go up even more because of government dairy price supports going into effect today.

Government economists say the increased price supports also could boost prices of hamburger and other inexpensive types of beef.

This new increase in the government's guaranteed price to farmers for milk used in butter, cheese and other products is just under 6 per cent. A 9 per cent boost was approved last year.

The latest increase came on the heels of a White House meeting between President Nixon and dairymen urging higher price supports. The Agriculture Department initially resisted the increase.

Agriculture Department economists decline to estimate how much the latest price support increase will raise retail prices.

Last year's dairy price support boost resulted in retail price increases of 2 per cent for table milk and 2.8 per cent for butter, five and seven times the rise in general food prices during the same period.

Farm economists said the dairy support boost might encourage farmers to hold off butchering older or marginal dairy cows. That could reduce the supply of canned and ground meats and drive up prices.

Support prices are not the only factor affecting milk and meat prices, the economists emphasize.

The price boost followed disagreement between agriculture and dairy state congressmen.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin originally announced March 12 there would be no dairy price support increase this year.

Four days later Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and 27 other senators introduced a bill to overturn Hardin's decision. Rep. W. R. "Bob" Poage, D-Tex., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, scheduled hearings on a similar bill.

Nelson said farmers have to pay more for feed, labor and replacement stock. An Agriculture Department report noted the cost increases but concluded that record high prices and a greater labor supply would still permit a net gain in dairy income.

Two days after the White House meeting, Hardin raised dairy support prices, noting that feed costs had risen.

Under the dairy price support program, the government puts a floor under milk prices by promising to pay any farmer $4.93 per hundred pounds of raw milk. Farmers turn to the government if they can't get at least $4.93 on the open market.

Sea Grasses

Turtle grass is a true grass closely related to eelgrass but found in tropical waters, including southern Florida. Like eelgrass beds, turtle grass shelters its own special community of animal life.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Producers of NBC's weekly "Music Hall Wednesday night started with the idea of kidding the annual presentation of the movies' Oscar awards, a subject which invites satire.

Something, obviously, happened between the idea and the execution—probably something like the fact that NBC will be broadcasting the awards show in about two weeks.

At any rate, Oscar survived without a bruise and the program was a long series of sight gags, mostly about actors and the Hollywood life style. For instance, an actor was declaiming about hating phoneyness, all the while chewing an apple. A colleague interrupted to inform him he was chewing a wax apple. A leading lady ran up to accept the star's Oscar for his performance in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," and suddenly turned into a Mrs. Hyde—fangs, fright wig and all.

Bette Davis, rarely seen on television except in old movies or a late evening talk show, acted as hostell but beyond introducing the sketches and musical interludes contributed little to the hour.

Frank Gorshin, best known as an impressionist, turned song and dance man for the evening. One of the best spots in the show was a medley of Oscar-winning songs. Michele Lee, Gorshin's partner in the number, has an attractive way with a lyric, a feeling for comedy and reminds one of Mary Tyler Moore.

"Music Hall," rarely a flashy performer in the Nielsen races, comes to a final end at the close of this season, one of 10 variety hours being canceled by the three networks. At one point this season 16 hours of variety were shown each week. Next season, there will be one-third as many.

PAMELA K. GILBEY

MAGNOLIA—Pamela Kay Gilbey of Hope has been awarded a $300 academic scholarship to Southern State College for the 1971-72 school year, financial aids director Bernard Polk has announced.

Polk said the academic scholarships are contributed by businesses or individuals in the Southern State area for outstanding Arkansas high school graduates scoring high in national tests and who are recommended by their teachers. The scholarships are renewable if the student maintains a B average in college work.

Miss Gilbey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Gilbey of Rt. 1 Hope and is a senior at Hope High School, where she is a member of the National Honor Society, Nike and Beta Clubs, Quill and Scroll and has served as yearbook editor.

She plans to major in English at Southern State.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

UNCLE SAM'S WILL IS HARD PILL TO SWALLOW

Dear Helen:

I'm not exactly a teen-ager, being nearly 20 with a 24-year-old husband and a baby daughter. But I imagine this has happened to lots of young people now that jobs are scarce.

Tom joined the service when he was 17, mainly because he couldn't get along with his stepfather. When his four years were up, we got married. We had it rough because of sickness, lack of good jobs, baby bills. Even when he worked 80 hours a week sometimes, we couldn't make ends meet.

Finally the work ran out entirely, and we were desperate, so he went to see the Army recruiter. He scored well in his tests, and they promised him his old Army job back, with a place for his family to live. So he signed up.

Helen, they put him in the infantry and in five weeks, he goes to Vietnam. He was fighting in 'Nam before. He's served his turn there! And it was Hell.

Tom says there's no way out. But they promised him! Isn't honesty expected of our government any more? —WHAT TO DO?

Dear What:

Write to the congressman from your District. I can't offer much encouragement, but if anyone can help, he can.—H.

Dear Helen:

I am a student, in charge of selling things in the book store and cafeteria.

This year I have been threatened by certain kids to give them something free. If I don't they'll gang up on me. I got beat up once. That was enough!

I can't keep hiding the loss much longer. So it's either get caught as a thief or get mugged for being a fink.

I can't ask to be let off my "job" without giving a reason: And then I'd be afraid to go home at night. Besides, I'm already guilty of stealing so I can't go to the principal.

What can I do? —SCARED

Dear Scared:

Call a bully's bluff and he sometimes ends up more scared than tough. These fellows won't jump you if they know their names are on file at the principal's office, with juvenile hall the next stop.

Better yet, arrange with school authorities to have the gang leader "surprised" in the act of extortion. If you tell the complete story, you won't lose much more than an honorary job—which you could do without!—H.

Dear Helen:

I am one of those conservation-minded guys. Usually my father is very understanding, but we just had a fight. I feel we should stop sending so many men to the moon and get more concerned with cleaning up the old planet Earth. Dad thinks the bread should go for rockets and the military, so we'll be world leaders. When I quote Ralph Waldo Emerson, "Conservation is an art in which a man has all mankind for competitors," he gets huffy and says us radical kids are messing up the world. How can I set him straight?—NATIONAL JANITOR

Dear N.J.:

. . . . A little at a time. Logical discussions backed up with proof about pollution have changed national attitude from a shrug to deep concern. I think your father will listen—if you stop shouting.—H.

Knicks Need Just One More Win

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks need just one more victory over the almost shotdown Atlanta Hawks to wrap up their first objective on the road to a second straight National Basketball Association title.

The Knicks, Atlantic Division champions, lead the Eastern Conference semifinals 3-1 in the best-of-7 series against the Hawks. A victory tonight at Madison Square Garden would put the NBA kings in the East final against the Baltimore Bullets or the Philadelphia 76ers.

Atlanta's failure to produce in the playoffs can be traced to the same source as New York's success—the backcourt duo.

Pete Maravich and Walt Hazzard, Atlanta's starting guards, have only 34 and 29 per cent shooting averages, respectively, from the floor.

New York's guards, Walt Frazier and Dick Barnett, on the other hand, have had 50 and 54 per cent averages, respectively.

In addition, Frazier and Barnett have been tough defensively, producing steals and helping on rebounds.

If the Hawks win the fifth game, the series moves back to Atlanta Saturday night.

Goalie Gets Credit for Victory

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Giacomin doesn't wear button down collars, but he's a conservative fellow nevertheless.

The veteran goalie refused all the congratulations Wednesday night after New York's 4-2 victory over Chicago gave the Rangers a substantial 10-goal lead over the Black Hawks in the race for the Vezina Trophy.

The Vezina goes to the team allowing the fewest goals during the regular National Hockey League season and the only time New York has ever won it was 1939-40, coincidentally, the last time the Rangers won the Stanley Cup.

"That's nice," said Emile Francis, the coach. "Maybe history will repeat itself."

The Rangers conclude their regular season this weekend with games Saturday in Montreal and at home Sunday against Detroit.

The Vezina is worth $1,500 to the winning team's goalies meaning $750 apiece to Giacomin and his swing man, rookie Gilles Villemure. It's a measure of the meaning of the trophy that Giacomin is anxious to win it but had no idea how much money it was worth.

Wednesday's showdown matched Giacomin against Chicago and goalie Tony Esposito, last year's Vezina winner and the only roadblock standing in the Rangers' way this year.

Player Has Lee Trevino Really Talking

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Lee Trevino is a non-stop talker. And he's talking. But this time he's talking to himself.

Gary Player is the reason.

He's got Trevino shaking his head and muttering in frustration.

"That little man in black had me playing for second place last week," said the supremely confident, go-for-broke character who won the Vardon trophy and topped the money winning list last year. He's well back on the money list this season and has yet to win. Player is one of the big reasons for it.

The little South African has beaten Trevino by a total of three strokes in winning the last two pro tournaments, three strokes that cost Trevino $34,850.

And Player, gunning for a rare third consecutive title in today's first round of the $190,000 Greater Greensboro Open, is about to make a believer of the swarthy Mexican-American from El Paso, Tex.

"I have the greatest respect for Gary and his game," Trevino said. "He's got it all. And he's the greatest sand player in the world. That sand wedge is the club he makes his money with."

And for a moment, just a moment, some of his confidence slipped.

"I'd hoped to win early in the year, to make it into the Tournament of Champions. But now it looks like I'll win later in the summer," Trevino said.

He still ranks as the No. 1 challenger to the Johannesburg rancher in Player's quest for a third consecutive victory, a feat that hasn't been accomplished on the rugged American tour since Arnold Palmer turned the trick in 1962.

Swoboda Real Happy to Be With Expos

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ron Swoboda was always popular and sometimes controversial in a New York Mets uniform.

After he contributed to the 1969 World Series victory over the Baltimore Orioles, Swoboda's stardom nose-dived like his head-first catches and the bullish outfielder never hid his displeasure about Manager Gil Hodges.

Well, he's not complaining anymore—after his trade to the Montreal Expos.

"I can tell you he's happy now, Montreal Expos General Manager Jim Fanning said Wednesday after acquiring Swoboda and minor leaguer Dick Hacker for outfielder Don Hahn.

Montreal Manager Gene Mauch is happy, too.

Swoboda, 26, a right-handed hitter who has been with the Mets since 1964, has a lifetime batting average of .242. Hahn, a product of the San Francisco Giants' organization, was obtained by Montreal in 1968 in a special expansion draft. The right-hander had a .255 average last year in primarily pinch-hitting roles.

In another trade, Montreal sent outfielder-infielder Jimmy Qualls to the Cincinnati Reds for outfielder Stan Swanson. The Expos also trimmed their squad to 29 by sending infielder Angel Hermoso and pitcher Bob Reynolds to Winnipeg and placing pitcher Jim Britton on the disabled list.

The Minnesota Twins released two well-known and injury-plagued right-handers—Dave Boswell and Luis Tiant. Boswell, 26, plans to try out with Detroit and Tiant, 30, with Boston.

Bobby Grich, a reserve infielder for Baltimore, was optioned to Rochester of the International League and Washington trimmed its roster to the opening day limit of 25 by sending pitchers Jackie Brown and Ron Law to their minor league base.

The Cincinnati Reds announced that first baseman Lee May would miss the first two weeks of the season because of an injury suffered in a Tuesday night exhibiton game. The defending National League champions already will start the season without infielder Bobby Tolan, who was injured in an offseason accident.

Frank Howard delivered two mammoth homers Wednesday as the Washington Senators prepped for the Presidential opener next week with a 6-5 victory over Baltimore. Howard's homers followed walks to Mike Epstein and both cleared the 70-foot fence 380 feet away in left-center field.

St. Louis scored six unearned runs in the sixth inning and went on to a 12-2 rout of the Mets. Steve Carlton pitched seven innings for the Cardinals, striking out nine and giving up just five hits.

Ray Culp warmed up for opening day with a nine-inning four-hitter as the Boston Red Sox trimmed Pittsburgh, 4-2. Boston put it away with three runs of Dock Ellis in the third inning.

Vida Blue, also tuning up for opening day, allowed five hits in six innings as Oakland ripped California's B team 6-3. Chuck Dobson pitched the final three innings for the winners, holding the Angels without a hit.

Bill Stoneman and Mike Marshall combined on a five-hitter, leading Montreal to a 2-0 victory over their top farm club, the Winnipeg Whips of the International League.

Tommy John pitched eight shutout innings and Rick Reichardt knocked in four runs with two homers, leading the Chicago White Sox to a 17-1 laugher over Detroit.

Pete Koegel's double broke a 1-1 tie, highlighting a three-run fourth inning outburst as Milwaukee downed Cleveland; winning pitcher Juan Pizzaro's two-run triple highlighted a five-run eighth as the Chicago Cubs whipped San Diego 8-3; Greg Garrett allowed only three hits in six innings as Cincinnati beat Kansas City 3-0 and Jim Bunning checked Minnesota on one run in seven innings as Philadelphia stopped the Twins 4-1.

Elsewhere, Cesar Cedena collected a triple and two doubles, driving in two runs, as the Houston Astros swamped the New York Yakees 9-3 and southpaw George Stone gave up just three hits in six innings as Richmond of the International League topped the parent Atlanta Braves 7-0.

Willie McCovey collected his fifth homer of the spring, a two-run clout in the fifth inning, as San Francisco topped Los Angeles 9-1. The Giants' Willie Mays was sidelined with a slightly pulled hamstring muscle.

The Tokyo Orions scored four runs in the 10th off Ray Jarvis and downed the California A team 5-1. The game was played for the benefit of former Angels' relief pitcher Minnie Rojas, a victim of a tragic auto accident last March.

Pair of 20 Game Winners Are Released

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Dave Boswell and Luis Tiant, a pair of former 20-game winners, were given their outright release Wednesday when they didn't measure up to expectations at the Minnesota Twins baseball training camp.

"I tried to make a deal for both of them but couldn't," said Twins President Cal Griffith.

He added that all other American League clubs had passed on Boswell when waivers were asked earlier in the week.

Boswell said he planned to try out with Detroit; Tiant, with Boston.

Boswell is 26 and Tiant 30.

Both are right-handers who had injury problems last season.

Boswell, who posted a 20-12 won-lost record and 3.23 earned run average with the Twins in 1969, slipped to 3-7 last season. He had painful swelling of the ankles in spring training and nagging arm and back troubles during the regular season.

The temperamental 6-foot-3 fastballer also slit a tendon on his hand while fileting a fish and lost some pitching time for that.

Tiant pitched for Cleveland 1964-69 and posted a 21-9 record with 1.60 ERA in 1968. He dropped to 9-20 the following year and was acquired by the Twins.

The stocky Cuban started with a blaze in 1970, running up five victories without loss before he felt his pitching shoulder "pop" in a May 28 game. He returned to action Aug. 3 but couldn't find his former effectiveness and was 7-3 for the year.

Orioles Are Again League Favorite

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl Weaver's dilemma is the envy of 11 other American League managers.

Weaver's Baltimore Orioles simply have too much of everything—pitching, power, defense, speed—for themselves as well as the rest of the league.

In Weaver, however, they also have the right man to manipulate that overkill, against a first-time challenge from the West Coast, on their way to a third consecutive pennant.

The Orioles won 108 regular season games last year, took out Minnesota in a three-game playoff sweep for the AL flag and then demolished Cincinnati's Big Red Machine in a five-game World Series.

They should rule the East Division again. But Minnesota's West Division defenders appear ripe to be taken, with the hungry Oakland A's the most likely takers.

Here's how the orders of finish shape up from this bleacher seat:

East—1, Baltimore. 2, Detroit. 3, Boston. 4, New York. 5, Cleveland. 6, Washington.

West—1, Oakland. 2, California. 3, Minnesota. 4, Chicago. 5, Kansas City. 6, Milwaukee.

The pennant playoff winner? Baltimore in four games.

Unless the incomparable Robinsons, Brooks and Frank, grow old overnight, Weaver's worries should be confined to:

—Finding enough work for Merv Rettenmund, who led the 1970 club with a .322 batting average as the No. 4 outfielder.

—Finding enough work for Pat Dobson, a potential big winner picked up in a trade with San Diego, behind pitching aces Mike Cuellar, 24-8, Dave McNally, 24-9, and Jim Palmer, 20-10.

Boog Powell, the league's Most Valuable Player, is the offensive heavyweight. Don Buford, Dave Johnson, Paul Blair and the Robinsons pack plenty of wallop, too.

Reggie Jackson is the key to the fortunes of Charlie Finley's Oakland club and its new manager, Dick Williams. The guess here is that Jackson will come closer to the 47 homers he hit in 1969 than the 23 he sent out last year.

Blue Moon Odom's arm problems cloud the A's pitching picture but they have two proven winners in Catfish Hunter and Chuck Dobson plus a prospective star in 21-year-old Vida Blue.

If Jackson hits his stride, and teammates Sal Bando, Felipe Alou, Rick Monday and Bert Campaneris deliver accordingly, the A's are a good bet to depose the Twins in the West.

Back in the East, the Tigers appear capable of moving up from fourth place a year ago to the runnerup spot.

Third baseman Auerlio Rodriguez and shortstop Ed Brinkman, acquired in the Denny McLain deal with Washington, are the big pluses. But pitching could be a problem unless Mickey Lolich, 14-19, bounces back.

Pitching is the Red Sox' chief concerns, although they picked up Ken Tatum in the trade that sent Tony Coniglairo to California. Luis Aparicio, the 36-year-old shortstop obtained from the White Sox, is being counted on to provide the offensive spark in a power-lacked lineup led by Carl Yastrzemski. Duane Josephson, obtained from the Chicago White Sox this week, solved Boston's catching problem.

The Yankees came in second last season, getting the most from pitching, speed, defense and catcher Thurman Munson, the AL's Rookie of the Year. But their run-making capacity remains suspect.

The maturity of Sudden Sam McDowell on the mound and the return of slugging Hawk Harrelson, out virtually all last year with a broken leg, are Cleveland's strongest selling points.

The Senators have three controversial newcomers—McLain, Curt Flood and Joe Foy—and two fence busters—Frank Howard and Mike Epstein, but not much else.

In the West, California's added punch-right fielder Coniglaro—and defense—center fielder Ken Berry—should make the Angels a formidable force. Shortstop Jim Fregosi, left fielder Alex Johnson, the league batting champ, and no-hit pitcher Clyde Wright are returning standouts.

The Twins, led by Harmon Killebrew, Tony Oliva and Rod Carew, who has recovered from knee surgery, won't go down without a fight. But their pitching staff has too many question marks.

Chuck Tanner, the White Sox' manager, hopes a series of trades that added outfielders Rick Reichardt and Jay Johnstone, infielder Mike Andrews and pitchers Tom Bradley and Vicente Romo will provide the lift needed to vacate the division cellar.

The Royals are gunning for a .500 season behind young gixtures Lou Piniella, Bob Oliver and Amos Otis.

JIMMY SMITH

Jimmy Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boots Smith, has received two trophies in recognition of his skill in basketball for the 1970-71 season.

Jimmy, center, was listed on the all-district team and all-tournament team in the Jefferson Avenue Invitational Tournament. Both nominations earned trophies.

He scored 198 points for the season with an average of 5.4 points per game. He also led with a total of 252 rebounds with an average of 11.4 per game.

Coach Harold Alexander said, "Smith has improved more than anyone over the year." He also commented on Jimmy's being the most consistent and outstanding defensive player on the team.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The South College All-Stars defeated the North All-Stars 114-99 Wednesday night in the "Million Dollar Classic" behind the 30-point scoring of Southern California's Dennis Layton.

The teams play again tonight in Columbia, S.C.

A crowd of only 1,700 turned out at Dorton Arena and saw Layton score 14 points in the first half to push the South into a 10-point lead.

Charlie Davis of Wake Forest scored 25 points.

Career May Be Over for Top Horse

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It was just a lonely, morning workout on the training track of country-like Belmont Park. But when it had ended so had the Kentucky Derby favorite and hottest Triple Crown prospect in several springs.

The 1970 2-year-old champion broke a leg Wednesday and today thoroughbred racing's glamour division—the 3-year-olds—was wide open.

The injury suffered by Hoist the Flag at the end of an easy five-furling work was a shattered pastern and fractured cannon bone in his right hind leg.

Several hours after the accident, Hoist the Flag was operated on at the facilities of veterinarian Dr. William O. Reed near Belmont Park. It lasted nearly five hours.

Dr. Reed said the result would not be known until today.

Immediately following the mishap X-rays were taken by Dr. Michael Gerard who said at that time:

"He can't possibly race any more. It's a question of whether we can save his life or not."

In six career starts, two this year, Hoist the Flag had six impressive first-place finishes but was disqualified in the 1970 Champagne Stakes.

"I can't believe it really happened. It's hard to believe, isn't it," said Sid Watters Jr., who trained Hoist the Flag for Mrs. Stephen C. Clark Jr.

And it was hard to believe for those connected with racing. But once the shock passed, the general opinion was that there now is no dominant figure among the derby-age colts.

Racing secretary Tommy Trotter said the one-mile Gotham at Aqueduct Saturday would have drawn "at the most, four." Now, without Hoist the Flag, as many as 11 or 12 could go, added Trotter.

The 1⅛ mile Wood Memorial April 17 at Aqueduct also promises to draw several who would have shied away from meeting Hoist the Flag.

The Derby itself on May 1 also should draw a much larger field, with some of the top contenders being Flamingo winner Executioner, Florida Derby winner Eastern Fleet, Bahamas winner Jim French and Unconscious from California.

Cave City Cager Signs With Porks

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —Ricky Medlock of Cave City announced Wednesday that he plans to enroll at the University of Arkansas on a basketball scholarship.

Medlock a 6-2 guard, averaged 29 points a game last year.

Americans Defeated in Hockey Play

GENEVA (AP) — The United States team takes today off—and rest is the one thing the Americans need if they're to have any hope of coming out of the World Ice Hockey Championships without being bounced into Group B.

For the second successive night the overmatched Americans struggled valiantly through one period, only to collapse in the second and absorb a defeat, their eighth in nine games.

On Tuesday night they led the Soviet Union 2-1 before a five-goal outburst in the second period paved the way to a 7-5 Russian victory. And Wednesday night the U.S. team played Finland to a 1-1 tie in the first period, fell behind 4-2 after two and wound up losing 7-3.

"The team was exhausted," Coach Murray Williamson said. "They gave everything against the Soviet Union. You just can't play like that against the Russians one night and then expect to beat the Finns the following night, especially when they have had a rest day."

The loss to Finland, combined with West Germany's surprising 2-1 victory over Sweden, dropped the Americans into last place in the standings of Group A—those qualified to compete for the world title.

Minnesota Twins

American League—West

Harmon Killebrew

Tony Oliva

PROSPECTUS: Twins haven't slipped much, but rest of the Western Division has caught up. As long as Killebrew and Oliva hit and as long as Jim Perry keeps pitching, Twins can't be counted out. But age is creeping up on them and younger clubs are starting to feel their muscles. If Twins are to win division for third year in row, they can't wait for other clubs to fold up, as they did in past.

PITCHING—Perry won Cy Young Award as A. L.'s best pitcher with 24 victories and ERA of 3.03. Dave Boswell is healthy but Luis Tiant isn't. Both suffered injuries that cut their productivity last season. Jim Kaat also due for rebound year after slipping to 14-10. Bert Blyleven, Bill Zepp and Tom Hall, all youngsters, need only seasoning. Ron Perranoski and Stan Williams anchor strong bullpen. Rating: B.

CATCHING—George Mitterwald (.222) and Paul Ratliff (.268) alternate. Ratliff is better hitter. Rating: C

INFIELD—Harmon Killebrew may be moved from third to first base. He hit 41 homers last season, drove in 113 runs. Rod Carew, who missed most of season with leg injury, is back at second and Leo Cardenas (.247) will return to shortstop. Third base will go to either Rick Renick or Danny Thompson, if they hit. If not, Killebrew will go back there and Rich Reese (.261) will return to first. Rating: B

OUTFIELD—Brant Alyea and Jim Holt will start season alternating in left field again. Cesar Tovar is in center after hitting .300 last year. Oliva stays in right, coming off fine 1970 season. He hit .325, with 23 homers and 107 RBIs. Rating: B.

ROOKIES TO WATCH—Paul Powell could push Alyea and Holt out of the left field job. Bill Rigney is considering it, but is waiting for spring training games to make decision for him.

Predicted Finish: 3rd in West

85th Game to Settle Issue in ABA Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After 84 games of the regular season, the American Basketball Association still has a playoff spot open. So Denver and Texas will play one 85th tonight to settle the matter.

The Rockets and Chaparrals went into Wednesday night's final games tied for fourth in the five-team West Division, each with a not-exactly-brilliant 30-53 record. But in the world of post-season play, fourth is good enough for a share of the action.

Each team seemed set up for a setback. Texas was visiting Indiana. The Chaps had won just three of 11 games against the defending ABA champions. And Denver, at home against New York, had whipped the Nets only once in five clashes.

But they both came out on top, Texas with a 133-129 squeaker over the Pacers and the Rockets with an easier 132-121 triumph over New York.

So, still tied for fourth, the Chaps and Rockets collide in Denver to see who makes the playoffs. The Rockets hold a 7-5 edge this season against the Chaps.

In Wednesday night's two other ABA season finales, the Memphis Pros clobbered Carolina 123-106 and Virginia flipped the Floridians 131-123.

The National Basketball Association, already into its first round of playoffs, was idle Wednesday. Its action resumes tonight with Atlanta at New York, Philadelphia at Baltimore, Chicago at Los Angeles and Milwaukee against San Francisco at Oakland.

Donnie Freeman hit 14 of his game-high 31 points for Texas in the final quarter as the Chaps broke away from a 102-102 tie to lead 133-123 before the Pacers staged a futile last-minute rally. Gene Moore added 26 for the winners. Bob Netolicky and Mel Daniels had 21 apiece for Indiana.

Denver put together a balanced attack with all seven scorers hitting double figures. John Barnhill's 29 points and Byron Beck's 28 led the Rockets, who opened an 11-point halftime lead and never looked back. The Nets, without star Rick Barry, out with a sore ankle, got 31 points from Sonny Dove.

Memphis, ahead only 54-52 at the intermission, ran away from the Cougars in the second half as Charlie Williams scored a season-high 35 points and Steve Jones chipped in with 25. Bob Verga's 25 led Carolina.

Virginia held the Floridians without a field goal for nearly 5½ minutes in the fourth quarter and outscored them 15-3 in that stretch to snap their seven-game victory skein. Charlie Scott had 29 for the Squires. Mack Calvin had 28 for the Floridians.

Determinar Winner in the Stretch

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Determinar, owned by Creek Y. Farms, overtook Mr. Spirit in the stretch to win Wednesday's $12,500 feature race at Oaklawn Park.

The victory put jockey Steve Richie in first place for total victories for the season and eased trainer Bob Holtus past Doug Davis Jr. for the top trainer of the meeting.

The winning time for the one mile and 70 yards was 1:41 3-5.

Determinar paid $15.80, $6.80 and $4.80. Mr. Spirit, ridden by James McKnight, returned $4.80 and $3.40 and Purchaser, with Burl McBride aboard, finished third to pay $7.80.

Mr. Spirit took the lead coming out of the gate and had pulled out in front by three lengths as the field turned into the back stretch.

As the horses rounded the final turn, Richie started Determinar moving toward the front on the outside. Going into the stretch, Mr. Spirit was still leading, but Apache Way started closing ground and passed Pleasantly to be in second place.

As Apache Way began to tire, Determinar sailed by and nabbed Mr. Spirit at the 16th pole to be the winner going away.

Purchaser, closing ground rather slowly in the stretch, came up very rapidly in the final steps to be beaten by only a head for second. Favorite Hindiya raced in the rear from wire to wire.

The daily double combination of Royal Balance in the first with Don Brumfield aboard, and No Sale Jim in the second, ridden by Anthony Rini, numbers one and three, paid $85.20.

The crowd of 12,249 wagered $1,155,828.

Ali Hit With Students at Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Muhammad Ali, who lost a bid to recapture his world heavyweight boxing championship recently easily captured the hearts of a large number of University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee students and faculty Wednesday.

Making a belated appearance on the UWM campus, Ali refused to duck any question, drew shouts of "Right on" with some of his answers, and praised Elijah Muhammad, the leader of the Black Muslims.

Ali said he wants to fight Joe Frazier again.

"I'll get that title back, then retire," he said. "I want to work for the betterment of my black brothers."

But he scoffed at reports that he became rich on the first battle between the two, although he admitted he received $2.5 million as his cut.

"It's my money. I fought for it," he said. "But the man (Internal Revenue Service) came and took more than $2 million. I still haven't received a single penny yet from the fight."

Ali had canceled a previous engagement to speak at UWM because it would have interfered with his training for the Frazier bout.

Wednesday morning, the loquacious Ali walked around the campus, talking with students. Later he met with the news media in a meeting that included more of his supporters than newsmen.

Wednesday night, Ali spoke at the university and read some of his poetry. The appearance was cosponsored by the Center for Afro-American studies and the university student government.

Today, Clay was to visit the Oshkosh State campus.

Laker, Bulls Playoff Is Strange One

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers and Chicago Bulls meet here tonight for the advantage in a strange National Basketball Association playoff series in which the home team has won each game after trailing at the start of the final quarter.

The Lakers, as the home team, draw the favorite's role and most of the pressure, since the teams return to Chicago Sunday for the sixth game in the best-of-seven series that now stands 2-2.

Thus far the Lakers have relied on the rebounding, shot-blocking and intimidating of Wilt Chamberlain and the shooting of Gail Goodrich and rookie Jim McMillian. The Bulls have countered with the medium-range marksmanship of Bob Love and the all-around play of Jerry Sloan and Bob Weiss.

Chamberlain, the 7-foot-1 center whose scoring has been modest but whose board work and defense have been awesome, credits Weiss with leading Chicago back from a two-game deficit.

Yarborough Returning to Atlanta

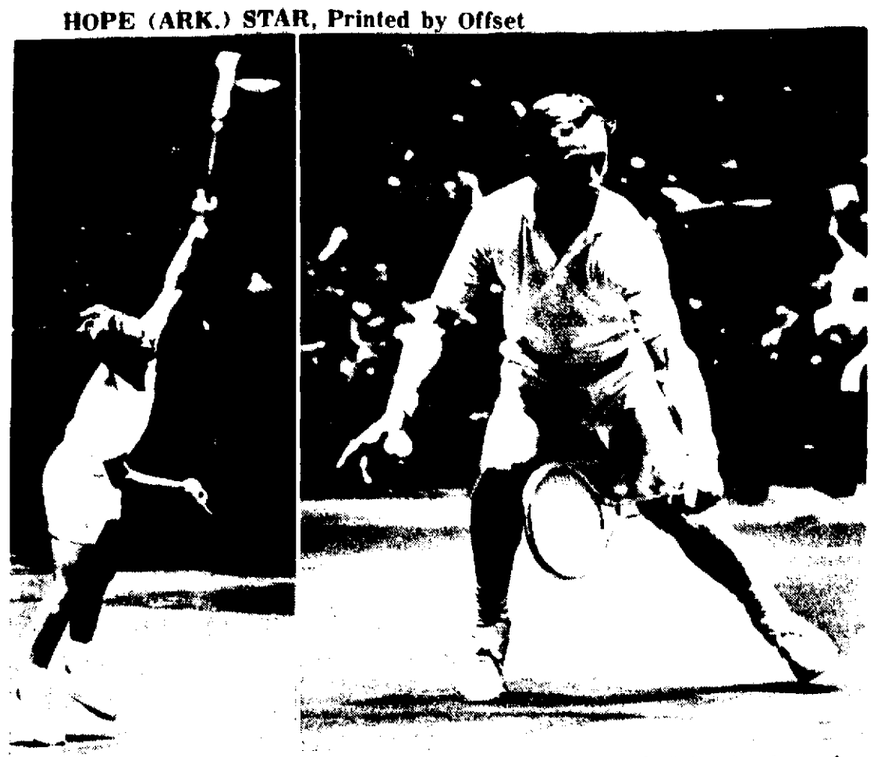

ATLANTA (AP) — Cale Yarborough, who cashed $448,961 in pay checks from stock car racing before moving on to other pastures, returns to Atlanta International raceway today to renew acquaintances.

"It is my ball park and I play awfully good there," the blond, 32-year-old driver, farmer and star of TV commercials said.

Yarborough, one of only two drivers to win three races in a row at the mile and one-half speedway, left NASCAR's Grand National driving ranks this year to campaign for the U.S. Auto Club championship in Indianapolis-type cars.

But he admitted he had a hankering to try his hand at the Alanta oval again, and in time trials today he was seeking one of a dozen births that will form the front starting order of the $106,000 Atlanta 500.

Twenty-eight drivers drew assignments for today's first qualifying round—among them the most consistent pole sitters of the year, A. J. Foyt and Richard Petty. Only the fastest 12 will make the 40-car field the first day.

ROD LAVER shows the form that has made him the top-ranked tennis player in the world and, if the $160,000 he received recently for winning the Tennis Champions Classic in New York is any indication, the richest as well.

Bucks Likely to Earn a Week's Rest

OAKLAND (AP) — Lew Alcindor and the Milwaukee Bucks can end the San Francisco Warriors' season tonight and earn themselves a week-long rest before round two of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Midwest Division champions go for a sweep in the best-of-7 Western Conference semifinals as the series returns to the Oakland Arena.

If the Warriors should upset the Bucks tonight, the fifth game of the series will be played Sunday in Madison.

The Western Conference finals probably won't start until next weekend, since Los Angeles and Chicago are tied with two victories each going into tonight's game at Los Angeles. Their semifinal series will run until next Tuesday if it goes a full seven games.

Milwaukee has a 12-game winning streak against San Francisco. The last Warriors' victory over the Bucks was on Nov. 13, 1969.

Boros and a team of three amateurs including North Carolina Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, took best-ball honors. That prize, plus his individual score, gave Boros $775 of the $5,000 purse, more than any other pro.

Bullets Hope for a Third Major Title

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets, driving for this city's third major league title in a year, hoped to eliminate the Philadelphia 76ers from their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference semifinals tonight.

Riding a three-game winning streak in the playoffs, the Bullets hold a 3-1 edge over the 76ers, who split six games with Baltimore in the regular season.

Dorie Murrey, a reserve with only seven minutes action in the first three playoff games, came off the bench Tuesday night to spark Baltimore to a 120-105 victory in Philadelphia.

Murrey scored 11 points and grabbed 10 rebounds in 25 minutes on the floor, prompting Baltimore Coach Gene Shue to say the 6-8 sub "was just phenomenal."

The Bullets also got a lift from forward Jack Marin, who led Baltimore with 27 points.

In addition to recovering from ills which slowed them in their 126-112 first-game loss, Baltimore connected on 44 of 59 gree throw attempts, including 34 in the first half, which ended tied at 62.

Philadelphia Coach Jack Ramsey, who had complained after Sunday's Baltimore victory that his players were being physically manhandled and called for closer officiating, saw his plea granted.

Canadiens, Bruins Stage a Preview

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Just one week before they face off in the opening round of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs, the Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens staged a little sneak preview.

Or did they?

The Bruins battered the Canadiens 6-3 Wednesday night in a loosely played game that barely resembled playoff hockey. Phil Esposito and defenseman Dallas Smith led Boston's attack with two goals apiece as the Bruins returned superstar defenseman Bobby Orr to full-time service and ended a four-game losing streak.

Elsewhere in the NHL Wednesday night, New York topped Chicago 4-2, Toronto tied Detroit 2-2, Buffalo trimmed Pittsburgh 6-4, Vancouver deadlocked Los Angeles 2-2 and California topped Minnesota 4-1.

Esposito's two goals gave him 71 for the season—13 more than the old single season record. The rangy center had 145 points—19 more than his own old record.

Espo's brother, goaltender Tony of Chicago, did not fare as well. Third period goals 40 seconds apart by Vic Hadfield and Rod Gilbert moved New York past the Black Hawks and increased the Rangers' lead for the Bezina Trophy for fewest goals allowed to 10 over the Hawks.

Despite the wide lead for the Vezina with just two games left in the regular season, New York goalie Ed Giacomin refused to celebrate. "See me Sunday," said Giacomin. "That's when I'll celebrate, after the last game."

Gilbert's goal—the eventual winner—was the 200th of his NHL career.

Toronto, which faces New York in the opening Cup round, rallied on third period goals by Jim Dorey and Dave Keon to tie Detroit.

Eddie Shack fired three goals and rookie Gil Perreault had his 37th of the year to lead Buffalo past Pittsburgh. The victory clinched fifth place in the East for the expansionist Sabres.

Wayne Maki's second goal of the game with 6:13 remaining enabled Vancouver to salvage its tie with Los Angeles. Bob Berry and Mike Byers clicked for the Kings.

California snapped a three-game losing streak at the expense of Minnesota. Dennis O'Brien of the North Stars spoiled goalie Gary Smith's shutout at 13:38 of the last period.

Gerry Ehman, Tony Featherstone, Norm Ferguson and Earl Ingarfield collected the Golden Seals' goals.

Asks President to Exonerate Lt. Calley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., has urged President Nixon to fully "exhonerate" Lt. William Calley, sentenced to hard labor this week by a military court for the My Lai massacre.

In a telegram, Alexander said: "though the evidence is conclusive that Lt. Calley committed the acts for which he was judged, he was trained and conducted to perform in his manner and is a victim of an ill-defined and vacillating foreign policy."

The congressman said he sent the telegram after a "long and considerable study" of the case.

Former Bank Executive Found Guilty

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Harlan Lane, 43, former chief executive officer of Union National Bank in Little Rock, was found guilty Wednesday of receiving a commission for procuring a $1 million loan for the bank in October of 1969.

A U.S. District Court jury deliberated about an hour and a half before returning the verdict. Judge J. Smith Henley said Lane would be sentenced in about two weeks.

The maximum penalty for the offense is a one-year prison sentence, a $5,000 fine or both.

Lane acquired control of Union National in July 1968 and was the board chairman and chief executive officer until he was ousted by a majority vote of the Board of Directors on Oct. 31, 1969.

Forest Fire Situation Critical

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The National Weather Service said today the critical forest fire situation in the state was expected to ease as a cold front moves across Arkansas triggering scattered showers.

State Forester Virgil Cothren said Wednesday that 36 fires had burned more than 3,000 acres of woodland in North Arkansas. He said several barns had been destroyed, but fire fighters had managed to keep the flames from spreading to houses.

Low humidity and 40-mile-an-hour winds hampered the efforts of fire fighters Wednesday.

To Speak at Blevins

GARY HUGHES

LITTLE ROCK—Gary Hughes, Health Careers director for Arkansas Regional Medical Program and representing the Arkansas Hospital Association, will be at the Blevins High School in Hempstead County on April 14, at 1:15 p.m. He will speak to the high school students as the assembly hour, on the many opportunities offered in the health field for both young men and young women.

Cites Progress on Major New Gas Supply

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — W.R. "Witt" Stephens, president of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., said Wednesday there had been "considerable progress" to secure a major new gas supply in the Anadarko Basin in Texas and Oklahoma.

Stephens, in his annual report to stockholders, said it was "absolutely necessary" that Arkla build a pipeline into the basin to meet gas demands.

The utility has pending before the Federal Power Commission an application for certification of a 300-mile pipeline into the basin.

Aged Driver Dies in Wreck

HARDY, Ark. (AP) — O. E. Carroll, 76, of Hoxie (Lawrence County) was killed Wednesday when the car he was driving went out of control and hit a culvert at the junction of U.S. 63-167 near Hardy.

He was alone at the time of the accident, officers said.

Jury Picked in Murder Case

BERRYVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Jury selection was to continue today in the first-degree murder trial of James Wiser, 39, of Green Forest.

Wiser is charged in the Dec. 10, 1969 shooting death of Jimmie Lou Rowe, 14, also of Green Forest.

Concerned Over Health Care for All

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers told new members of the state Comprehensive Planning Advisory Council Wednesday that he was concerned about providing adequate health care in all parts of the state.

The council was established to advise the Arkansas Health Planning Program office on problems on physical, mental and environmental health.

The governor said he was especially concerned about the failure of a bill to license osteopaths to the full practice of medicine. He reiterated his concern for medical care in both rural and metropolitan areas.

PROTEST

cago Tribune, Agnew declined to comment specifically on the Calley case but said conditions during a military operation "are not subject to Monday morning quarterback judgments."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., commenting on the case before a speech in Tuscaloosa, Ala., said that beyond Calley "what is perhaps of great significance is what this is doing in terms of our own thinking ... about the war."

"Perhaps for the first time," Kennedy said, "Americans are really questioning what others have questioned for some time, and that is the whole question of the morality of our involvement in Southeast Asia."

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace said his state may refuse to draft any more men for military service until Calley is set free.

There were protest resignations from draft boards Wednesday in Elizabethton, Tenn., Nance County, Neb., and Tucumcari, N.M.

The House and Senate in Oklahoma adopted resolutions urging Nixon to grant clemency but the South Carolina House rejected such a measure.

Similar resolutions were pending or to be introduced in state legislatures in Colorado, North Carolina, Kansas, Alabama and Michigan.

A Mobile, Ala., businessman submitted to an Army recruiting office a letter of surrender for what he said were war crimes he committed during World War II.

"I ... did on bombing raids to Germany cause innocent noncombatants and civilians to be killed," wrote Dan O'Connor. "I hereby surrender to the authorities for court-martial in connection with the above conduct."

A Coos Bay, Ore., mother of 13, Judy Wheeler, and her husband each mailed $1 in a letter to President Nixon and proposed that others do the same to raise $1 million to ransom Calley.

"Money," she said, "is the one thing the government seems to understand."

CALLEY GETS

his sentence, although there has been no indication he would do so.

At the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Wednesday that the President's office had received thousands of telegrams and telephone calls since the verdict against Calley was announced. He said the messages were about 100 to 1 against the conviction.

When asked what the President thought of the verdict, Ziegler said: "I of course would not be able to comment on that."

At Ft. Benning, Calley's civilian defense attorney, George Latimer, said "Lt. Calley was relieved when the court-martial sentenced him to life—he got the best of two terrible penalties."

There were to verdicts available to the jury—death, presumably by hanging, or life imprisonment. The life sentence carries the possibility of parole after 10 years.

The sparing of Calley's life was expected to ease to some degree the nationwide furor over his conviction.

Latimer said Calley probably will be confined to the disciplinary barracks at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

It took the jury of six combat veterans 13 days to convict Calley.

The stocky, 5-foot-3 Calley, his rust-colored hair slightly rumpled, stood rigidly at attention as the sentence was read.

He breathed a deep sigh when he heard the words, "to be confined at hard labor for the length of your natural life." It meant he would not hear the death sentence.

In addition, the jury sentenced him to dismissal from the service and to forfeit all pay and allowances. His monthly pay was $773.10.

Members of the jury were tight-lipped as they left the courthouse.

However, late Wednesday night, one of the jurors, Maj. Walter Kinard, commented on the deliberations. He declined to duscuss the voting that had taken place in the jury room.

But Kinard, a Vietnam veteran like Calley, said the My Lai operation "has been relived every hour during the time we spent in the deliberations room by members of the jury to try to find some way, some evidence or some flaw in the testimony of I don't know how many witnesses, that would shed some light on some reason not touched on so that we could find Lt. Calley innocent.

Folk Festival at Mountain View

Demonstrations in pioneer Ozark crafts will be a part of the Ozark Foothills Craft Show at Mountain View on April 16-18.

Early in the Nineteenth Century, settlers came to the Ozarks from the Applachian region and The Eastern Seaboard. The origin of this proud and independent people traced all the way back to Scotland and England. Music was an important part of their life because it made the cruel frontier bearable for they lived by their own ingenuity. Skilled hands were necessary for survival. Otherwise, how could the wool be spun into yarn? How could colored clothes be made without using the native plant dyes on the hand woven materials? There were logs to hew, implements to make and oxen to be shod.

Is this interesting culture completely lost? No, it has been preserved in a remarkable way and may still be observed throughout the Ozark region.

One of the most authentic cultural events in the Nation is presented each spring at Mountain View, located in North Central Arkansas. This years ninth Arkansas Folk Festival will again feature the two prestigious organizations, The Rackensack Folklore Society and The Ozark Foothills Craft Guild, both who are doing a outstanding job of maintaining the mountain music and crafts.

The Stone County Rackensack Folklore Society, made up of farmers, timber workers, and business people, is the parent chapter for many groups that have been organized since 1963. Jimmy Driftwood, famous folk singer, is the organizer of the society. The young Rackensackers present their concert on Thursday night, April 15 and regular concerts are scheduled on Friday and Saturday nights during the festival. In addition, folk music is played continually on the town square and street corners during the day-light hours.

Guild president, Edwin Luther, indicated that demonstrations this year will include broom making, wood carving, pottery, shuckery, weaving, spinning, milling, painting, soap making, leather tanning and many other pioneer skills. The three day craft show and sale opens on Friday, April 16 at 10 A.M. and closes on Sunday, April 18 at 4 P.M. The Guild is a state wide craft organization which includes 200 members.

Pioneer dress, two mountain theme parades, window displays and rodeos help provide entertainment for visitors of all ages. And visitors have journeyed to this small town, nestled in the rugged Ozarks, since 1963. About 40,000 persons jam the area during the festival.

If nature cooperates, the dogwoods will be in bloom during the last half of April. A special brochure giving suggested "Dogwood Drives" and information on several events may be received by writing the Chamber of Commerce, Mountain View, Arkansas. 72560

Ouachita to Offer Riley a Contract

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Ouachita Baptist University will mail its teaching contracts for the 1971-72 school year by today and one will go to Lt. Gov. Bob Riley.

There was much to do earlier in the year when it was reported that Riley was not being paid by Ouachita while serving as lieutenant governor and was supporting his family on his state salary of $2,500 a year in addition to a veteran's pension.

"We very much want for him to come back and teacher," said Dr. Daniel Grant, president of Ouachita. "We value Dr. Riley's services very highly."

Grant, who took over as president of Ouachita Feb. 1, 1970, said he regretted not making a statement on the situation when the first reports were issued.

"The real issue with us is a close decision on an obviously outstanding political victory of one of our faculty members," Grant said. "The question is whether we should treat him differently than other faculty members who have done outstanding things in other fields. It was a simple issue of whether we could pay him although he wasn't teaching. We think we were correct on this and any fair-minded person would agree."

Grant said Riley, chairman of the political science department at OBU, asked for a leave of absence and that the institution's Board of Trustees acted on the request in December.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Foot in the Door

To the bus driver waiting at the wheel, it seemed that the fat lady was his final customer. But behind her, unseen by the driver, a girl was also preparing to come aboard. She had already gotten one foot in the door when he closed it and started to move.

The girl was flung to the pavement and injured. In due course, she sued the bus company for damages.

"Even if his view was blocked by that fat lady," she told the court, "he had no right to close the door without double-checking. After all, a common carrier owes a high degree of care to its passengers."

"Maybe so," conceded the company. "But this girl was not yet a passenger. She had paid no fare. She had not really gotten aboard. We do regret the incident, but we are not legally liable."

Nevertheless, the court held that the girl was indeed a passenger, entitled to extra care, and granted her claim.

This is the prevailing rule, that a person may acquire the special status of "passenger" even before he is inside the vehicle. It is usually enough that he has shown his readiness to come aboard—and that the company has shown its readiness to accept him.

But the readiness on both sides must coincide. Take this case:

A man rushed up to a bus just after the door had closed. He knocked on the glass, but the bus was already beginning to roll. The man slipped, fell, and got hit by the rear wheel.

Could he collect damages from the company? A court said no, because he had not gained the status of a passenger. The court pointed out that he had not shown his readiness to ride until the driver had stopped showing his readiness to accept him.

A parallel problem arises at journey's end: at what moment does the passenger lose his special status?

In another case a passenger alighted at a bus stop, began to cross the street, and was knocked down by a second bus passing the one he had just left. Here, he claimed damages on the theory that his driver should have warned him that another bus was following.

But the court said the driver could not be blamed, because the man had lost his status as a passenger. Once safely discharged, said the court, a passenger turns into just another pedestrian.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Infectious Hepatitis Caused By Virus

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am interested in learning more about hepatitis. Is it possible to catch it again? Are there two kinds of it? Explain the differences between them. How long will the liver be cured? I understand vitamin pills help. Is this right? Are there many who had it years ago because the needles weren't clean? Is it true that the disease would always be in the blood?

Dear Reader — Hepatitis means inflammation of the liver (hepar). It can be on a chemical or infectious basis. If the liver is damaged enough and the damage persists, there will be scarring and changes in the liver which we call cirrhosis.

I believe what you are concerned about is the problem of infectious hepatitis caused by a virus. There are two kinds of this. One results from contaminated food or water. One possible source is oyster beds contaminated by improperly treated sewage. Like most other infections transmitted by way of food, hygienic control is important.

Clearly, a contaminated water source is one way to transmit this problem from one person to another or, for that matter, to cause epidemics. This form of infectious hepatitis usually occurs fairly early after the infected material has invaded the body.

The other form of viral hepatitis, sometimes called serum hepatitis, is transmitted by the blood stream. It may occur six weeks to three months after obtaining a blood transfusion that contains some of the virus. It has been known to be transmitted in various forms of vaccinations and, as your comment suggests, by improperly sterilized needles.

Epidemics of hepatitis have been caused when large numbers of individuals, like troops, have been inoculated with serums, plasma or blood constituents that were contaminated. This happened in World War II. A greater appreciation of the possibility of transmitting the virus in blood transfusions and pooled plasma has resulted in a greater control of this problem.

Serum hepatitis, transmitted by needles, is a frequent serious complication in drug addicts who get their kicks from the needle. Just recently, causes of serum hepatitis have been noted to be transmitted by mouth, through the nose and through a cut, without any needles or serum being involved.

Once a person has recovered from the acute episode, he usually is cured, in the sense that he probably will not have any more inflammation. The question is, how much residual liver damage will the person have? This can only be judged on an individual basis.

"Today is April First," remarked Y. "How about letting me sit South this once?"

"All right," replied Z, "but we'll probably be sorry."

You older readers may recall that in the columns on auction bridge, Z always sat South. Y was North and A and B were always on defense.

The very first hand found them playing against their old friends A and B. Y got to six hearts in no time and A opened the queen of diamonds. Y won in dummy, discarded a club and promptly led the deuce of spades to his king. A had no problems about what to do. He produced the three of that suit without either undue haste or protracted study.

"I should have started playing the dummy years ago," chortled Y.

Then he proceeded to draw trumps, discard another club on the other high diamond, lead a second spade and rise with the queen. This time A was ready with the ace, led the seven of spades and B sitting East collected the setting trick with the jack.

"Just as I remarked earlier," said Z. "You should stick to putting me in the declarer's seat. I would never have fallen for A's flummery with the ace of spades, but actually I would not have had to try for two spade tricks. The clubs broke 3-3. You had enough entries to dummy to set the last club up for a spade discard. Start by throwing two clubs on the ace and king of diamonds."

"Right as usual," said poor Y. "I do need practice at dummy play."

Legion Pays Tribute to Namesake

At its 51st Birthday celebration on last week at the Douglas Building, the American Legion Post 12, its Auxiliary and junior members paid tribute to Leslie Huddleston, Hempstead County's first casualty in World War 1, for whom the post was named.

The tribute was given by Cindy Hollis while "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" was played softly in the background. Then a medley of old and new patriotic songs was sung by a group of junior members. Soloists were Mary Jane Reyenga, Susan Reardon, Barbara Jackson; guitarists were Dee Singleton and Judy Reyenga; pianist was Beth Gilbert. Members of the ensemble included Linda Harris, Toni Polk, Debbie Barham, Sandra McFarland, Becky Moore, Cindy Hollis, Sandy Flowers, Sandy Eakley, and Kathy McRoy.

Sandy Flowers told about the American Legion being founded in St. Louis, Mo., in 1919, and she said that the Arkansas Legion Department was the first in the [illegible] United States to be incorporated. The first president of the local Auxiliary was the late Mrs. Carter Johnson. Under the direction of Mrs. Joe Jones, junior memberships have grown from 2 in 1954 to 33 today. The present Junior Activities Chairman is Mrs. Dean Murphy. Mrs. B.N. Huddleston and son, Wesley, were special guests at the potluck meal served to 66 at tables decorated with flags and miniature poppy hats. Herschel Johnson, Post Commander, and Mrs. Joe Jones, Auxiliary President, welcomed the group that included three new members, Frank Middlebrooks and Maj. and Mrs. Paul McCormack, and two other guests, Mrs. Pat Harris and Mrs. Doug Flowers. Commander Johnson announced there are over 200 memberships in the local Post, and Mrs. Charles Taylor, Auxiliary membership chairman, reported 159 members including the 33 Juniors.

Past Post Commanders present for the occasion were Cecil Weaver, Eugene Cox, Fred Formby, Harry Hawthorne, Joe Jones, E.P. Young, Jr., and Claud Byrd. Among the living charter members are Cecil Weaver, Pat Duffie, B.C. Hollis, E.S. Franklin, Dewey Hendrix, Fred Luck of Ft. Worth, Tex., E.F. McFaddin and John Greene of Little Rock, and Duval Purkins of Lake Village.

These members appeared in their uniforms worn in service. Joe Jones, Navy; Harry Hawthorne, Army; H.H. (Pete) Tippit, Army and E.P. Young Jr., Navy.

Wesley Huddleston and Mrs. B.N. Huddleston.

Firm Wants to Keep Contract With Arkla

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Olinkraft Corp. of Monroe, La., has filed an affidavit with the Public Service Commission saying that its' contract with Arkansas and Louisiana Gas Co. should not be set aside because it encompasses more than the sale of natural gas.

The PSC is considering withdrawal of Arkla's industrial contract rates and replacing them with a schedule of tariffs as is now done with individual customers.

The affidavit filed Wednesday said that the contract with Olinkraft also included provisions for payments for constructing a pipeline to the Huttig plan and that abrogation of the contract would thrown the provisions into disarray.

The affidavit also says that the PSC cannot tamper with the contract without overstepping its jurisdiction.

Hope Major Receives Award

Major Franklin N. Horton (left) deputy G-1 (personnel), 82d Airborne Division, receives congratulations from Division Commander Major General George S. Blanchard during recent ceremonies. The major received the Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry for actions during an operation in Cambodia throughout April and July of 1970. Major Horton was assigned to III Corps as an advisor to the plans staff. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Horton of Hope.

MONEY FOR

yearly competition and prizes must have upon the progressive development of the agricultural industries.

This appropriation will enable the districts to repair existing facilities, to make additional improvements and to enlarge and upgrade services.

We all owe a debt of gratitude to the many dedicated people who make the Hope District Show such an important part of Arkansas' growth.

Red River V-Tech

Another pet project has been to insure that the state vo-tech schools received needed appropriations.

One of the primary reasons Arkansas was so long in attracting industry (and still a difficult problem) was the lack of a skilled technical labor force.

The state vo-tech schools have done more than anything else to bridge this gap. Think how important it is to prospective industries looking at the Southwest area of the state to know there is a highly rated facility training skilled and professional secretarial personnel along with top knotch mechanics, machinery operators and welders.

The best way to help this nation's economy is to spend the money to teach new skills to victims of outdated professions or to offer a lasting career to young ambitious Arkansans.

The Red River school is one of Hempstead County's most important assets. In many visits to the school I have been most impressed with the facilities and students.

Director J.W. Rowe and his entire staff are to be highly commended for an outstanding performance. Red River consistently ranks at the top of measurements of the state's vo-tech schools.

For the past three weeks several of us have worked to see that House Bill 768 was passed. This legislation will provide $6 million the first biennium and $6.4 million the second—to be divided proportionately among the schools. In addition the schools will receive $2.3 million from the federal government and $800,000 in student fees.

It is a mutual goal of Mr. Rowe and your Representative to obtain within the next two years a drivers training program vital to the important trucking industry.

Workmen's Compensation

An issue of controversy which arose last week was that of workmen's compensation increases. Mr. J. Bill Becker, representing the AFL-CIO proposed an increase of $14 a week—from $49 to $63 a week over a two-year period. Labor has also requested unlimited liability for the families of injured or deceased workers.

Before it ended this series of votes became to the most difficult of the session.

The first bill was obviously unacceptable to the majority of the legislature. The primary reasons were: (1) It would have raised the compensation levels higher than the states surrounding Arkansas. (2) It would have hurt the state's prospects for attracting more desirable industry.

It is a simple fact that if a state does not attract industry the working man suffers through lower salary scales coupled with his having to pay a broader share of the tax base.

Arkansas is still in a very critical stage of development industrially. We must stay within invisible boundaries which make a state financially attractive to industry.

For these reasons I supported a compromise amendment which would have offered an improvement in workmen's compensation benefits, although not as much as labor had requested.

The amendment failed and the bill was defeated. My voting sympathies remained with some sort of compromise when labor offered an alternate plan of $56 a week with some limits on liability.

I voted for this bill as a reasonable compromise. A more conservative amendment was voted upon and failed. All of the bills which attempted to change the level of compensation failed.

When a man loses his job through loss of limb or life it is tough to expect his family to live on less than $56 a week. What about the 8-year old child of a deceased worker? The state decreases the odds of producing a good citizen of such a boy if liabilities and compensations are not adequate. It is my hope that an equitable solution can be achieved in the next session.

In an earlier column we stated that the ecology of our environment is a very delicate balance, so subtly interdependent on so many things.

Likewise the economy is a similarly delicate and intricate mechanism. The toughest job of any legislative body is to have the vision to weigh cause and effect of even the most innocent-seeming piece of legislation. The very strength of our system is that it changes with its ability to measure cause and effect. There has never been a piece of legislation. The very strength of our system is that it changes with its ability to measure cause and effect. There has never been a piece of legislation which, proven good, could not be strengthened—or proven bad, could not be repealed.

Ecuador Revolt Ends Without a Shot Fired

By JORGE JURADO
Associated Press Writer

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Without firing a shot, the government ended today a military revolt against President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra's regime, the Defense Ministry announced.

Gen. Francisco Guzman, the rebel leader, surrendered to the army commander in chief.

Earlier, the rebels were reported gaining support in their revolt, aimed not at the president but at his nephew, the defense minister.

Sheriff's Expense Bill Defeated

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Acting at the urging of Rep. A.J. Troxell of Greenbrier, the Arkansas House refused Wednesday to agree to a Senate amendment increasing the expense allowance of the Faulkner County sheriff's office.

200 to 198.

Volunteer-army backers and advocates of more frequent congressional review of draft laws joined war foes in voting the one-year extension.

At the same time, the House approved 114 to 29 draft deferments for divinity students.

An effort to cut off manpower for the Indochina war by halting the draft when it expires next June 30 was defeated 330 to 62. The attempt to abolish the entire draft system lost 73 to 11.

Dismantling the draft system, said Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., who proposed it, should be "merely the first step to ending that ignominious war in Indochina."

Rep. Warren J. Mitchell, D-Md., called the draft system "the mechanism by which we feed more young men into Southeast Asia to be brutalized, maimed and slaughtered."

But Rep. Charles S. Gubser, R-Calif. said scrapping U.S. military manpower would only "increase the possibility of nuclear war" by turning full U.S. war-deterrent reliance to nuclear weapons.

Divinity student draft deferments were approved with a score of congressmen arguing such exemptions protect America's moral and religious climate and its traditional separation of church and state.
